

Como Audio Introduces Its First Streaming Turntable
--Designed for Playing Records Wirelessly All Over The House--

As vinyl records top the popularity charts and enjoy a resurgence among music lovers of all ages, Como Audio introduces its first streaming Turntable by Tom DeVesto. All over the world, music lovers are discovering (or re-discovering) the satisfaction of operating a turntable, dropping a needle and playing albums providing the greatest bandwidth for enjoying music as it was intended to be heard.

“Vinyl is making a comeback and sales are soaring,” says Tom DeVesto, Designer and CEO of Como Audio. “If you ever listened to a master recording on vinyl, it is hard to go back to digitally recorded music, plus once you start collecting vinyl – you won’t want to stop. With the addition of our streaming turntables, we can now support all forms of content delivery. You can play records in one room and stream them all over the house to all our products.”

The Como Audio turntable is precision belt-driven with a real wood veneer or multi-layer high gloss piano plinth with a medium density fiberboard (MDF) substrate and an anodized aluminum speed button, all designed to perfectly complement existing Como Audio music system finishes. It can be conveniently connected wirelessly via Bluetooth or with an audio cable using the integrated moving magnet phono pre-amp output to any Como Audio or other music system’s Auxiliary input.

A heavy 300mm diameter metal platter provides smooth rotation with decreased resonance. The 8.6” tone arm is fitted and specifically optimized for an Ortofon magnetic cartridge. The low-noise AC synchronous motor and ultra-precision frequency DC-driven AC generator provides speed stability without adding vibration. The time-tested belt driven design offers motor decoupling, and the speed is selectable at 33 or 45 RPM.

A black felt mat, removeable dust cover, and 15V/0.8A, 110V 60Hz or 230-240V 50Hz external power supply are included along with a two-year warranty, not including the stylus.

The Como Audio Turntable measures 16.3" (415mm) W x 4.65" (118mm) H x 12.6" (320mm) D (including dust cover) and weighs 11.68 lbs./5.3 kg. It comes in Walnut, Hickory, Piano Gloss Black, and Piano Gloss White finishes to match products in the Como Audio collection.

Pair any Como Audio music system with a matching turntable for a stunning visual and audible experience.

The Como Audio Turntable retails for $399 and is available in limited stock at www.comoaudio.com.
